

Contract M9 Xiying Huang

Method signature:

+ setUsername(String: _username) : void

setUsername is a public static method of reportController class and _username is an instance of String and it is the username of the current user which the _username will be set to. This method does not return anything.

Precondition:

Current user exists.

Postcondition:

The static variable username of the current user in the reportController class is set to be the String _username passed in. Previous username String is replaced.